As of 10:50 AM CT, with seven minutes to play in the first half of the match, West Bloomfield (3-8-2) started to make a little headway and had the ball on the Fire's doorstep for some valuable stretches. But, in the 35th minute, Justin Johnson's first-touch decision to go for the back post, only served to give North Side United (4-4-3) a 2-0 lead as the home side played a reverse game of soccer. North Side United's Mark Espinal would then find an equalizer just after halftime, taking the ball just outside of the box to pop the ball over the onrushing goalkeeper and into the net. Although North Side United struck again to stretch the lead to 3-1 a minute later, David Folley would then add a fourth for the Mustangs at the 60:04 mark on a long range strike. In the final 20 minutes, the Fire looked in the driver's seat as the Mustangs fought valiantly, only being allowed two shots total in the final 10 minutes. However, North Side United defender Zack Schellenger, who had played 89 minutes and would finish with two goals, popped the ball past the goalkeeper at the 68:24 mark to complete the upset. After the match, Mustangs goalkeeper Chris Harrison (7) and midfielder Saul Riley (7) both gave some insight on what the Mustangs went through: "With a new coach coming in, it's difficult to have continuity and a lot of the guys were still finding their rhythm with the new system. "You still have some guys who are still young players, we're still learning who to trust and who not to trust. I think we did that well, we still went in with the same effort, but in the end

The incidence of cystic fibrosis in Nigeria: review and phylogenetic implications. Some 60 000 Nigerian children are annually presumed to have CF. However, since this population is the most heterogeneous in the world, the actual incidence of CF is probably much higher. There are two problems which hinder accurate estimates of the true incidence of this disease. First, it is not possible to make a diagnosis of CF definitively from a clinical point of view. Secondly, the vast majority of true cases of CF are imported into Europe and the US for diagnosis and treatment. This implies that approximately 30% of all undiagnosed cases of CF in the world result from the population studied in this work. The disease in this population affects one in 2534 whites, one in 80 blacks, and one in 2160 mixed Afro-European subjects. The clinical presentation of CF in Nigeria appears to be rather mild. The most prominent symptom is the presence of persistent pulmonary and sinus disease with bronchiectasis. Other features include pancreatic insufficiency and occasionally the appearance of hepatobiliary disease, i.e. jaund
