Typefacer

Typefacer provides a simple interface to install fonts directly on your computer and view them. You can even customize fonts right on the interface. This way you can have fonts more professionally designed, and use them across the network. There is even a standalone application to view the fonts already installed in your computer. Use Typefacer to: Browse through your fonts, and see their preview on the interface. Font details can be copied to the clipboard. Design your own fonts and send them to other application. If you like Typefacer, you might also want to check out: WinFontTest When iOS users are trying to download apps on Apple's new App Store, they can choose from a number of their favorite iOS applications. They are all offered for free, and it's easy to get into the habit of downloading any of them when they want to. Unfortunately, the variety is way too great for users to select just the right ones for their needs, and they end up downloading one of the many duplicates they didn't know about. One of these is Humble Fonts, a site filled with over 100 free fonts that are also designed for iOS apps. The best part is that they are all free, and you can find everything from apps to websites when you need them. Finding apps The iOS app search page has a dropdown list of apps that are of interest to you, and you can pick and choose those that are available in your region. Clicking on the search button brings you to the search page. This time, it has an alternative view, that lets you search by name or keywords. While you can search by name, we suggest searching by keywords, which has a lot of advantages. For instance, you can easily search for a particular font, and see which apps use it. On the other hand, you can also search for specific websites, if you don't have an app idea yet. Importantly, all apps are marked as in private beta, meaning they are still in development and not ready for prime time. Therefore, you don't have to worry about downloading an unstable version of an app. That's not to say you should download it and use it, though, since a preview is just a preview. Finding websites Apart from apps, the iOS app store also offers a preview of websites. Just like apps, you can search them by name, keywords, or theme.

Can i agree that this article is to stupid & meaningless, the only things that matters is the visual, another thing, is that font size is not the only thing that matters, what if you want to send your message in an old or a different font size? thanks I love this app, it's very easy to use, if you've ever created a profile for a mac user, you'd be able to do this without any trouble, you should include an option for people to create their own collage like on facebook or twitter. hey typefacr, where are the fonts files stored? Everytime i use the app i have to rebuild my font cache, for example, when i change a font. Lets say i have a.ttf file and i use the app to convert it into.ttf what happens? will it loose my previous rendering? I'd like to create fonts for those who have problems choosing what they want and be easily sharing the fonts with my friends. Cheers This article was missing information of displaying the usage of fonts with every font by a certain app. Loading screen or something similar to the "Start Menu" on Windows would help the article to be much more helpful. Also the App would have a "send a link to a friend" feature to share a font you like to any Facebook/Twitter users. I love the article but need it to be a little bit different. I would like to see an option where you can see the word by font what is the right font for the word. For example if I want to write about "amazing" font. I can select a font of that and press on ◆
