The Legend of Zelda: Breath of the Wild 2 - 3DM Limited Edition - (-). Are there any videos with more detail on the changes?. Any info on update 2?It looks like R&B singer Bryson Tiller is turning his headshot obsession into a career, because he is serving as the face of James Lavergne's new fragrance, Beauty Secrets. It will be available exclusively on department stores, as well as online, and its first ad campaign features the #TellerLeaving trend. "I know the dichotomy that I represent. I'm a lot of fun -- I don't just go out and shake my butt," he says. "But I always know how to look good. I just want people to know it. I know that I'm a young artist, and people are used to thinking of me in a certain light, and I want to break away from that." He's already made it into the press on both coasts: Last week, Vibe magazine proclaimed Tiller "the Hardest Working Man in the Music Industry," following a string of big wins for his debut release, Trapsoul. In May, the singer became the first R&B man since Marvin Gaye to win the Billboard Music Award for Top R&B Artist. But what sets Tiller apart from some of his competitors is the look of his music videos, his shameless love of black culture, and his quest to put his own stamp on the industry. "I am a slave to fashion, in a certain way," he says. "I love it. I love the blackness in my music video. I love the way I dress. All these things are a form of art. So, putting it all together -- my music, my videos and my personality -- it's what I'm trying to achieve." Tiller grew up in the church, and it influenced his music: "I had the gift of speaking in tongues," he says, "and I definitely saw it as a form of entertainment and a form of anointing, but I grew up listening to a lot of gospel, in particular." After high school, he followed his aunt to Vanderbilt University, but dropped out, briefly wrestling with a music career,
