Tuesday, October 14, 2014 A rgent situation in the United States of America. There is a major coming economic crisis. World bankers have had a hard time providing the benefits promised, and they are now looking for a way out. They've been scheming, scheming to return to their normal trading practices. In the Summer of 2014, the world bank's annual summer meeting was held in Nashville, Tennessee. People in the know had many well-placed sources who have told them about the secret meeting on a secret island. By virtue of national security, the island's location cannot be disclosed, and the meeting is only accessible to the people with the highest security clearance. This is a meeting of bank officials (Chairman of the Federal Reserve, President of the World Bank, and President of the Asian Development Bank) plus the high level executive team, the C.V. of the organizations. They are coming up with a plan to circumvent the laws and regulations in order to have the bankers once again control our economy. This meeting is quickly revealing themselves to be at the top of the national security list. Not only is our economy under siege, but our liberty as well. The true agenda is to bring back their control of our economy. In order to do this, they need to find a replacement for the executives that have stepped down, or better yet, a replacement to become the new head of the world bank and the Federal Reserve. If you like it, or maybe if you don't like it, give it a thumbs up to let me know you appreciate my work. A lot of people have asked what are the differences between this game and Imperia. "It's basically like a free version of Imperia with the entire map editable, except that you get your own randomly generated desert isle instead of being connected to the mainland." Details As the last of the DB V160 family of locomotives, the BR 218 was the backbone of the Deutsche Bundesbahns main line diesel locomotive traction from the 1970s up to the reunification of Germany, and is now here for Train Simulator. The V160 family comprised several classes of closely related four-axle diesel-hydraulic locomotives built in the 1960s and 1970s for the Deutsche Bundesbahn, of which the BR 218 was the most numerous, with 12 prototype locomotives and 398 main production locomotives built in total. They were seen as a multi-use locomotive, operating passenger and freight services on main lines and secondary branch lines before reunification of Germany. Such was their success, they went on to be used across the countrys railway network well into the 2000s, with many still in use for freight and yard work, and others as Thunderbird rescue locomotives on electrified lines. Despite their relatively fast top speed of 87mph (140km/h), the Class was displaced by newer diesel multiple units (DMUs), electrification of the rail network and new diesel locomotives introduced by DB. The BR 218 for Train Simulator is available in Deutsche Bahn Traffic Red livery and includes a non-powered BR 146 as a failed locomotive to recreate Thunderbird operations. Features of the model include PZB signalling and a rake of passenger coaches in DB white livery for Quick Drive use, complete with passenger view. The locomotive is also Quick Drive compatible, giving you the freedom to drive the DB BR 218 on any Quick Drive enabled route for Train Simulator, such as those available through Steam. Also included are scenarios specifically for the West Rhine: Cologne-Koblenz route (available separately and required to play these scenarios). Scenarios Three

What's new:

Game * We started this blog on February 2010. We started this blog on February 2010 as a reaction to certain opinions expressed in the 2011 BMW M5 World Championship, done by sim girl Yoya K. Our first case is sim girl Yoya K. She not only had a good and competitive car, but also a good and competitive team. But she screwed her car's exhaust duct. It was completely closed and had a zero performance. When we found out about this, we quite simply just wanted to shed some light on this fact. We thought the sim community didn't know about this problem or didn't care about it. So, as we are a blog that spread the knowledge about games and automobiles, we wanted to spread the knowledge about this problem. But we didn't know what we were about to deal with after that. We didn't know if sim guys actually cared. We still don't know what we are dealing with. We don't know how passionate sim fans truly are about sims in general. We do know how much the simulator is important and it truly is THE foundation for everything that we know as the sim community. Being part of the sim community ourselves, we know how much the sims are important, how much people of their scene love gaming. We care about games. We care about sims. But we didn't know what to expect after not knowing what we are dealing with. It started off as a few comments. Then, after a month, people started talking about it. And we thought, maybe it's not such a small issue after all. And we realized the issue is more serious than we thought. We, as a group, had some discussions. We heard the same opinion from many in the sim community: the European scene is bigger than people think. This is a totally different problem, even if they are dealing with the same thing. We want to clear that up, because it is quite tricky. Why are people more satisfied in European sims? There is a major issue with this question. What I want to say is: could it be that European sims have more people than we think? What can explain that is simulator-areas in Europe. When you look at overall numbers in European simulators, it doesn't look that big.
