A total of 129 colorectal cancers (CRC) were analysed for changes of the short arm of chromosome 3. In 20 cases alterations in 3p were detected with breakpoints lying in three regions: (i) 13.4--18.2 Mbp (region I); (ii) 18.5--22.5 Mbp (region II) and (iii) 22.8--24.2 Mbp (region III). A further 24 cases showed deletions of 3p, of which 22 were associated with deletions of 3q. In 34 cases no structural changes of the short arm of chromosome 3 were detected. Some of the observed deletions may be associated with deletions of tumor suppressor genes. import React from'react'; import PropTypes from 'prop-types'; import Modal from'react-bootstrap-modal'; import './images/upload.png'; import { useUpload } from './useUpload'; const SelectFile = ({ onClose, values, id, mode }) => { const { id } = useUpload(); const uploadURL = `/admin/api/image/upload_url/photo/${id}`; const { photo } = values; const [showPhoto] = useUpload(); const

The fine focus of traditional physics of waves and particles is increasingly replaced by the 'emergent' physics of the related and amplified technological situations that appear when higher complexity is brought in. Technological evolutions can be represented as singular events of final state (or'mega-event') that can happen in the open space and when large numbers of partners are involved. Technological evolutions are semi-ordered sequences of smaller events called'mega-t
