Multiple Tab Handler is an extension for Mozilla Firefox browser that aims at taking control over the number of tabs users have in their browsers. The extension empowers users to open, reload, bookmark, close and save to their files at any time. Features of Multiple Tab Handler: Reload tabs (and pages in general) Move tabs to the same location Close all tabs (in current session or all the time) Bookmark a tab Save or copy a tab Find and close multiple duplicates Set a detection method for: URL Domain Host What's New: Version 1.4.0 Bug fixes. Benefits of Multiple Tab Handler: More time saved with multiple tab control. No surprise working in such an intrusive way. Better control of your tabs with custom actions like search, save to file, save to bookmark, close all at once, move to a folder etc. What was possible before with 30 tabs open in your browser is now possible with just one. System Requirements of Multiple Tab Handler: Firefox browser. Mac OS X Windows Linux Additional Features of Multiple Tab Handler: URL Copy for copied tabs Search/Close multiple duplicates (based on domain, host or any parameter) You can disable or remove the extension at any time You can use it with Firefox browser from version 0.9.9 Been using this extension for a few days. It works great and I especially like how you can organize your tabs and also just see what you have opened. Removing seems to be a bit of a hassle, but is not a huge deal. tamixgames, Aug 30, 2015 It works pretty well, I wish there was a way to get rid of all the bookmarks first, and then reload them, otherwise it's pretty useless and often inaccurate. Multiple Tab Handler is an intuitive add-on that does not boast an appealing user-interface or multiple functions, but it enables the user to operate faster and better. There is a wide variety of third-party tools that claim to offer greater efficiency by eliminating the tedious work involved in the task of re-opening or managing multiple tabs. However, not many of them can deliver because of the complex operation that is required to get the job done. However, Multiple Tab Handler makes the job of re-opening or managing multiple tabs much simpler by providing the user with a variety of functionalities, including the ability to open tabs, save tabs, select tabs, bookmark tabs, and close tabs. The extension also enables the users to reload tabs, select a tab by clicking on it, and also remove all or some tabs from the history. This extension provides the users with the ability to remove or duplicate multiple tabs; it provides the host name along with the domain, which makes it easier for the users to open multiple tabs. The only drawback of the extension is that it does not offer the comprehensive yet easy-to-use interface; but it is a tool that can be used in lieu of other extensions to get the job done by performing the tab manipulation tasks. Installation Instructions: 1- First, you need to download and install the latest version of Firefox. 2- Unzip the downloaded file and then unpack it in the right place. 3- Done. As Java becomes an important part of the PHP development platform, web developers are required to take a closer look at Java support in PHP environments. PHP support for Java The support that PHP offers for Java applications is really poor. PHP is not able to handle multiple JVMs or support a wide range of Java applications. It is an interpreted language, and so the support for Java is a bit limited. Java support for PHP PHP supports a very

What's New in the Multiple Tab Handler?

Some tabs are just too many, making you waste a lot of time to close or open them or just search for some duplicate pages, so Multiple Tab Handler is designed to save your time by letting you execute multiple actions at once. Click each tab to select or hit ctrl+select to specify what you want to do. Swiping left/right gives you a listing of open tabs. Hold ctrl and swipe up or down to navigate through the list of open tabs. Swiping up/down will close/open tabs. Double-clicking/triple-clicking a tab will select or clear the tab. If the tab is hidden, you can still clear/select it with ctrl+left/right button. The 'reload', 'bookmark', 'close all', 'close all other', 'search by host', 'copy to clipboard' and 'copy to file' feature can be used if you press ctrl+left/right button in a tab while you are holding Ctrl. To clear a tab that is not in the focus use ctrl+right button. You can click the number to open the number of the tab in a separate window. The number of the tab will close itself if it is no longer selected. To scroll to the tab, click the tab header. If a tab is selected, pressing shift will clear it.
