In this fast-paced, modern take on pong, you play the role of a monster piloting a mech in a quest for justice and freedom. Use your wits and skill to fight off rows of robotic opponents in this quirky and challenging sequel. Giant, Rotating, Action Pong Unique twist on classic Pong gameplay Dodge enemy bullets, lightning bolts and enemy lasers Save more than 10 times more lives than the original Pong Unique and challenging Pong gameplay Classic Pong - Leave it to the professionals! Pong Character - Like most of us, you're a real Pong fan, so why not play as one? Screenshots Official site A: Dream Scape 2D Text Demo It's text-based and not very difficult. It's just an announcement, not an actual game. It might be fun to play, but you need to understand that it is not an official game in any way. A: Dexery You play a space pirate commanding a ship. The other characters can either be operated by keyboard or a gamepad. The ship has limited health and speed, and you can carry a limited number of weapons (if you want to play with a gamepad, you can use a free download of Gamelab's SpaceSimController software), which are replaced by a new weapon every time you earn enough points. There's one large map with many procedurally generated levels, and there's a score contest mode. There's no winnable final level, the game is literally over the moment you're defeated. The entire game is offline, no ad-supported version. A: The Color Keys It's a platforming game where the goal is to reach the exit after reaching the 20th stage. However, the exit is always blocked off by four Color Keys - one on each platform. You must collect a series of colored keys, and a certain combination allows you to manipulate the platform to reach the exit. The game is

We first started in 2006 and we have been using the official logo and colors over and over on our forums. When people realized we were for real and not a hoax, they started telling us "well, the theme colors aren't quite right" and "we have looked for this program for a long time". We took this as our cue to change. And change. And change. How's that been working for you? The events of the last few years have taught us so much, and if a program could have helped us deal with all of that, we need to help make that program. So, in 2013, we

Players take on the role of a pilot of the Assault Shell unit, and pilots the insanity fighter "Assault Shell". The Assault Shell unit comes with 6 different variations, the powerhouse ALPHA, the high-ranged BETA, the stonewall GAMMA and the high-ranged DELTA, and DELTA is a special variant of GAMMA that carries a unique super blue hypercharged version of ALPHA. Upon taking off, you will immediately be able to see all four of the Assault Shell variations in 3D terrain around your plane. Listen to the pilot comment and move around freely, switching between the four variants to find the optimal setup for the situation. You can switch between the variants at will, except during mission duration (which lasts for 5 seconds by default) and during the following types of missions. The SURVIVAL MISSION The SURVIVAL MISSION will be activated by selecting the SURVIVAL mission item during the mission select screen. If you're caught in the event, you will be forced to switch between the different Assault Shell versions. The SELECT MISSION A SELECT MISSION will be activated by selecting the SELECT MISSION item during the mission select screen. Players select one of the 4 different variants of the Assault Shell to use in the mission (4 different versions are unlocked at once). The BATTLE MISSION The BATTLE MISSION will be activated by selecting the BATTLE MISSION item during the mission select screen. Players will be given 4 different Assault Shell versions to choose from, and are free to switch between any of them during the mission. The person who wins the battle will get extra experience points for each of the 4 Assault Shell units used. The ULTIMATE MISSION The ULTIMATE MISSION will be activated by selecting the ULTIMATE MISSION item during the mission select screen. Players will be given 4 different Assault Shell units and will be able to select 4 of them to fight in the battle, after which the player with the highest level of units will get a special weapon or ability and extra battle points. Control: The game is controlled by a pair of buttons on the sides of the screen: - Movement: Start moving around freely in 3D space, simply tap left and right to move the Assault Shell in that direction. Tapping the down button will take you to a higher altitude. As you move, you will hear the pilot comment. When you are close enough to an enemy plane, a special and Amateur Auditions! I have been putting off signing up for the small person and amateur auditions, basically a couple of reasons:

1) I'm not 100% comfortable singing solo on camera and 2) The auditions are for the Boys Ages 19-21, and I'm 21 So why the faux pas now? First of all, I don't know anything about this Boys' singing thing except what I've seen on tv and heard from Ryan Seacrest and some other singing contests/shows that I've done. Secondly, it seems like they are judging on their "visuals" not on the vocalists themselves. It seems to me that if you care about the vocals and the song choice, just as much as how they look, then why would you limit all of the singers to auditioning with classics? I need to find out all the details. Guys reading this: If you're not making the top 10, how do you get selected as a Judge? Do they just call them in to see how they look? What separates the Judge spot from the Judges' Idol spot? And lastly, why do my ears bother me every single time I think about singing in front of a camera? I'm only 21, I don't know, I look and sound like the butt of a stupid joke. But the music I sing is a part of me, it's the thing I have to master. It was all worth it in the end... I'm still really happy with my results on the Disney Channel Academy. I won the Disney Game Show for once, didn't miss a solo once through the first tryouts and was picked as one of the four judges on the 2nd tryouts for my category, as a 16 year old. I was in the studio at Disney's Hollywood Studios and even got the chance to ride in Spaceship Earth on this trip. You never know where life can take you. Anyway, I'm gonna finish this post and start thinking about the next thing. Feel free to ask questions in the comments.
