Q: What are the cheapest ethereum mining equipment available? I want to go the route of Ethereum mining, but I want to save a little money. Currently I am using the NVIDIA GeForce GTX 970, I also have my 2nd GPU of an ATI Radeon 5850 that I am thinking about selling to get some extra money for the newest version of the rig. I am being told that they have stopped supporting 1.9.6. My question is: What are the cheapest GPUs/machines available to be used in a ethereum rig at the moment? A: Using a Nvidia card is the cheapest way to go right now, since they still support the current version of the GPU miners. The best alternative is to use an AMD card, but they require the latest AMD driver to be installed. You can find it here: The current recommended driver is 16.0.1, which was released on 2016-10-02. Unfortunately as of right now the 16.10 (nightly) driver which supposedly supports the 1080 series cards (which the 5850 uses) isn't 100% stable and the 16.10 driver supports the previous Fermi and Kepler based cards. But the 16.10 driver isn't released yet (it's on the 23rd of October). Until 16.10 is released you're stuck with the 16.0.1 driver and you'll have to use the Nvidia proprietary graphics driver to mine. A:
