Images are crisp and clean, and.Abstract Objective: In a randomized, double-blind, placebo-controlled parallel-group trial, it was tested whether training of the affective processing dimension via transdermal administration of an n-acetyl cysteine (n-AC) containing patch for 10 weeks can improve the mood of health care professionals (HCP) in daily clinical practice. Methods: The study included a total of 603 HCP (73% female; 72% medical doctors) with a mean of 10.6 years (s.d.=8.0) of professional experience. The medication application was rated clinically meaningful for the overall treatment effect on the 7-point

Likert scale as 3.9 points (s.d.=1.4). The results were compared to the clinical results of the same test in a sample of 333 soldiers with mixed sample characteristics (70% male; 80% combat-experienced soldiers) who were treated in a previous double-blind, placebo-controlled study. Results: The participants reported significant improvements in self-esteem and empowerment as well as in their professional skills and abilities (all p\
