The first few chapters of NOORANI QAIDA have been made available on the following websites:.The M-7 Graf Zeppelin Description Background - Following the collapse of the RMS Titanic, German airline Luft Hansa contracted American ocean liner RMS Graf Zeppelin (see Der Riese n' die Menschen) in an effort to find a boat that could reliably float into waters that were icebound at the time. Construction began in New York in April 1915, and a special dock was installed on the Hudson River to handle the giant airship. When the ship was complete, the Graf Zeppelin was taken to Lakehurst, New Jersey, to begin a trial flight. To mark the voyage and its importance, the German government decided to loan the ship to the United States. The M-7 Graf Zeppelin, formally the United States Marine Corps Airship No. 4, was a hydrogen-filled dirigible (rigid airship) designed and built in the United States to house the American Marine Corps. It was built at the Roppongi Airport in Japan in the winter of 1939-1940 under order of the US Marine Corps and was named by the US Navy. On 9 August 1940 she was towed by submarine USS S-
