finally, you need to be able to render the photo into a 3d space. now, you can take the photo and apply the dof effect right out of after effects. however, you'll need to use the rendering and composition tutorial to understand how to render the photo in 3d space and then make it your 3d layer in after effects. to achieve the best results, the dof pro plug-in has several important settings that you will want to check and adjust when using the plug-in. these include the following: the aperture, f-stop, blur level and the blur radius are all sliders that affect the final result of the plugin. these settings are all relative to the current frame so you will have to set them every time you render a new frame. dof pro will make suggestions for the settings every time you render a frame. however, you are also able to override the suggestions. dof pro has several preset modes you can use. these modes are based on samples of real-life photography. you can select to use one of the modes from the preset modes drop down menu in the dof pro timeline. the default mode is the photoshop mode and this mode is not recommended for use with non-lens based cameras. dof pro has preset modes for canon eos cameras, nikon, panasonic, olympus, sony and fuji. depth of field pro also includes several options to control how the depth of field effect looks like. these include the dof curve, dof shape, layers, color correction and the blur color. dof pro is the undisputed leader in photorealistic depth of field effects for adobe after effects. backed by over a decade of research and development since its first release in 2005, dof pro has become the industrys professional choice for unparalleled and sophisticated depth of field effects quickly and efficiently as a post process. dof pros state-of-the-art featureset provides innovative and cutting-edge technology not available elsewhere, resulting in one of the most powerful and advanced depth of field processors in the industry.

through post-production in other software packages. however, it has the added advantage of being one of the first plugins of its kind to offer a true on-camera solution. dof pros focus mask feature allows the user to view any adjustments in focus mask in real-time. a moving focus mask can be created by adjusting the focus mask. however, it is possible to set the focus mask to be locked or not locked. this can be achieved through the use of a focus mask lock button that will either be visible or invisible on-screen. in the case where a focus mask is not locked, dof pro will not be able to calculate a focus mask for a new frame. the cloned effect feature is one of the most widely used tools included in dof pro. it allows the user to have a selected area of the image duplicated and the focus of the copy is determined by the input focus mask. the output of the cloned area is then located on the original image with the new focus range. dof pros cloned area can be used to produce wide-angle bokeh effects, which are produced using a specific focus mask. the cloned area can be used to produce a range of different bokeh effects. dof pro has a cloned area feature that can produce an extremely wide range of bokeh effects. once youve captured your flat background and camera you need to use one of the best 3d tools in after effects: the depth of field (dof) plugin. after effects has a huge library of plugins that are really easy to use. you can find a good tutorial on how to use the dof plugin in the depth of field article. now you should be able to capture a photo that has depth. you should be able to change the blur type from a circular type to a fisheye type. you can also change the radius that the blur goes out to using the dof slider. 5ec8ef588b
