However, the data analytics industry is still in its infancy, and the promise of data analytics solutions may not be realized. The main reason is that the demand for data analytics solutions is extremely low. There are a few industries with higher interest in data analytics: finance, insurance, healthcare, marketing, and consumer products. As a result, there is limited financial investment and interest in the market. As an example, there is an interest in data analytics for the digital health market, but rarely on data analytics solutions. Astute Graphics are leading innovative experts in designing imaginative tools for vector designers that significantly save time, boost creativity and achieve refined results. They lead the way with cutting-edge design software they bring back the fun to drawing whilst making it far easier to meet tight deadlines and make on the fly changes. Well established with an enviable reputation in their field, this has led to strong alliances with key partners such as Adobe, Wacom, authors and high profile designers. 4th series ingot in Canadian variation. By far the best example of this variety out there is the 20000 R5. This example is the first we have seen and the finest specimen we have ever inspected. The serial number on this rod is virtually in the same condition as the one on this photograph, although the stamping is somewhat more pronounced in this example. The stampings are positioned differently on the rod than the normal condition and this variance is most likely the result of the moulding of this specific casting. Please note there are variations in the 1 serial font as demonstrated in the photo to the left, with the 175446 being the anomaly. This variety also is of a unique casting mould that resulted in side edges of this variety being more square in shape, without the tapered angle common to other 10oz Canadian examples. The photo below demonstrates heating the casting to burn the emblem off. When we try to do this with other examples we usually have to do a bit of sanding and repolishing to remove the stamped emblem before the emblem is destroyed.

As a result, there is limited financial investment and interest in the market. As an example, there is an interest in data analytics for the digital health market, but the number of data analytics applications is small. The data analytics experts focus on finding a problem in the digital health industry, but rarely on data analytics solutions.
