
Netflix Premium Account 18

why did netflix react this way? to quote the company, sharing accounts with people outside your household is a violation of the netflix terms of use, and netflix knows that most people who share their accounts with others arent actually sharing with people outside their household. so, it made sense for netflix to be more vigilant about account sharing. the company is finally taking action against a problem that it knew would happen, but did nothing to address it. however, netflix does allow you to share your subscription with other members of your household, as long as theyre all living in the same household. you can also share your netflix account with your partner or another friend, as long as theyre all living in the same household, and you can also add additional homes to your account if you live in a different city than the person who signed up for the account. what netflix isnt letting you do, however, is add additional members to your account. theres no reason why users cant share their netflix account with people outside their household, and netflix should be allowed to allow that. instead, netflix is taking a hard stance on account sharing, and its something that could have been avoided if the company had made sharing an account with outside members easier in the first place. there are a few things that netflix could do to make the process of sharing netflix accounts with people outside your household easier. for example, the company could simply allow you to share your account with an unlimited number of people outside your household. it could also allow you to share your account with people outside your household, even if theyre not living in the same household. but netflix doesnt seem to be willing to make these changes, and the company is finally taking action against something that could have been avoided if it had been made easier to begin with.
