Studios has formally unveiled a new look at the upcoming first-person shooter Wolfenstein: Youngblood, which is set to release on PC, Xbox One and PlayStation 4 in May 2018. The game, which will be called Wolfenstein: Youngblood, will feature several original characters, including a lead protagonist in his 20s. Also on display was the game's first-ever single-player puzzle/action game, called Biohazard, which will explore the "extensive Wolfenstein lore". When the game launched, it was titled, Wolfenstein: The New Order: Our New Beginning. Bethesda Game Studios has announced that Mechwarrior Online will be delayed to 2019, and that it will release on PlayStation 4, Xbox One and PC platforms. According to the game's lead designer Robert Bowling, the decision to delay Mechwarrior Online is necessary to give the studio the time to focus on creating a "better experience for the players." Mechwarrior Online originally launched in November 2014, and has since become one of the most anticipated games of the PC genre. The game stars players as a pilot whose mech is destroyed while defending his home from an alien invasion, forcing him to take to the skies as the pilot of a Mechwarrior. Mechwarrior Online features single-player, multiplayer and cooperative modes, and takes place in a persistent online universe. Players can customize their mech, and can team up with other pilots to take on mission objectives or to explore the massive landscapes of the game universe. At E3 2015, Bethesda Game Studios announced that Mechwarrior Online would be delayed by approximately one year, resulting in the game's release on the PlayStation 4, Xbox One and PC platforms in February 2019. The Washington Post has reported that Bethesda Game Studios' lead writer and director Michael Condrey - who worked on Fallout 3 and both Skyrim games - is leaving the studio. In October 2015, former Senior Director of Development Todd Howard announced that he would be leaving the studio following the release of Elder Scrolls V: Skyrim.
According to a report from OXM UK, four of the team's five programmers have also left the studio.
