IBUndelete can undelete records for SQL-based or InterBase-based databases. It can also undelete records which have been deleted in the database as a result of an incorrect change log during recovery of the system. IBUndelete tries to restore the record even if it is not in the database anymore. It works with few records only to reduce the database size and time to recover. IBUndelete can work only with the deleted records which are currently present in the database. It searches for all the records and checks the internal data information about the deleted records which were created at the same time when they were deleted. If the database is prepared for crash recovery, then IBUndelete can also find deleted data in the recovery log. IBUndelete allows to undelete a record even if it was deleted in an old version of the database. IBUndelete can restore the record from the flash memory buffer or restore the record from an external file. IBUndelete can restore records both for InterBase and Firebird databases. The key feature of IBUndelete for InterBase and Firebird databases is support for recovery logs.
