The Dragon, War Has Come to the Gods, The Gods Fight Between Gods and Demons. Short description: The dragon was born when she died. When Price killed her. It slipped out of her body with her blood and took off running through the streets of the city. It was a magnificent beast, she knew it was her last time with it. The tears ran down her face as the beast took off running to its new master and this time the master would not fail to gain it. Here is where the article on the definition of Demons ends. A great deal of black literature is concerned with Demons. See, "The Origin Of Demons". The Dragon, War Has Come to the Gods, The Gods Fight Between Gods and Demons. Ny the Dragons death, it came to his master as he planned it to do. Befooled, Dark Sulfur is thought by scholars and the Alliance as the source of the evil and power of the Beholder. The Alliance seeks the true source of the evil and power of the Beholder and Black Sulfur for its own sake. The Dragon, War Has Come to the Gods, The Gods Fight Between Gods and Demons The Gods Fight Between Gods and Demons: Price fights one of their number, the Moon. The Moon stands beside her, the two of them fighting to keep the beller from getting the Moon or from escaping. He cannot get to her without going through her and Price can't stop him, so they fight. Price does great damage with his many blades, but they fall from his hands and they can't be found. The Moon's blood pools around her breasts and Price prays for his weakness. She is weakened, but she is also greatly powerful now. The Beholder laughs. He destroys everything in the room. Price is crushed. He grins. "You are no longer the Beholder's tool now," he says. "You are my tool." The beller stands beside the Moon. They laugh. "On board!" the Beholder shouts
