Q: Can Google App Engine Support PHP? In the documentation for Google App Engine I found this: The following languages are supported: Java, Python, C++, and PHP. Is Google App Engine compatible with PHP? A: Does GAE support Python? It sure does. PHP? Only in a very limited capacity. It cannot run PHP code. A: Most php devs i know run their server with apache (or other web servers), and then use mod_wsgi to load up wordpress or whatever with python. This allows you to treat the GAE python backend as if it were a standard web server, but at the same time you have the option to run your php in php contexts, probably with mysql and ldap.

Q: Avoid Nhibernate Lazy loading exception I am new to Nhibernate and I am having a problem with Lazy loading. My question is can I prevent Nhibernate exception if I am not using lazy loading for many collections properties. [Edit] I am using NHibernate 1.2 I don't use the Generic collections that gives me List, Set, Map etc.. but I use collections that returns specific types (Array, List, Set) What I want to avoid is using lots of "if (propertyName == null)" or "if (propertyName.GetValueOrDefault() == null)" statements if the collection is not lazy loaded. A: Yes you can. You need to use one type only.

using System;
using System.Collections.Generic;
using System.Collections.Generic;
using System.Linq;
using System.Text;
using Nhibernate;
namespace ConsoleApplication2 {
class Program
{
static void Main(string[] args) { Configuration cfg = new Configuration(); cfg.SetProperty("connection.driver_class", "NHibernate.Driver.NH
